December Highlight: Groundcovers!

Oxalis oregana
(redwood sorrel)
1 gallon @ $15.95

- As the name implies, this lovely groundcover is typically found in the redwood understory.
- Preferring to be in shade and with consistent moisture, this plant will spread over time through runners and underground rhizomes.
- Pairs nicely with ferns and other rhizomatous plants, like trilliums (Trillium spp.) or wild ginger (Asarum caudatum).

Ceanothus 'Yankee Point'
(Yankee Point Ceanothus)
1 gallon @ $15.95

- Have a sunnier yard? Consider this wonderfully tolerant ceanothus!
- Adapted to coastal and inland conditions, this evergreen ceanothus will charm you with its dark green foliage and little bursts of blue blossoms.
- This ceanothus is both fast growing and drought tolerant, and will require little maintenance once established.

Fragaria vesca
(woodland strawberry)
TB5 @ $6.95

- If you enjoy a little treat while pulling garden weeds, this is the plant for you!
- Fragaria vesca likes shade and water, and will reward you with tasty little strawberries in the summer.
- Fragaria's far-reaching runners will quickly establish themselves across your yard, creating a full and lush carpet over time.
